

said, "Sometimes, my biggest problem is to develop something in New York that Dick Lee hasn't thought of first."

Conservative icon William F. Buckley Jr. once kidded that Lee, a liberal Democrat, "is excellently equipped to act as a mayor, particularly of impoverished cities which desire to mulct (extract) from the federal government funds to reify (make concrete) Mr. Lee's municipal visions."

A few days after Lee finally let go of City Hall in 1969, the New York Times in an editorial called him "one of the pioneers of urban renewal" and declared, "a significant chapter in American urban history was concluded."

While New Haven won widespread fame as one of the "model cities" of that era, Lee himself rejected that notion.

"I resent the term 'model city,'" he told the New York Post in August 1967, one week after five days of race riots erupted. "I have avoided it. I've hated it. We're not a model city if there is a single man who is unemployed, if there is a single slum home."

He told Time magazine soon afterward: "If New Haven is a model city, then God help urban America."●

MITCHELL AWARD

● Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I come to the floor today to recognize and congratulate one of the eleven winners of the George J. Mitchell Scholarship, Miss Jasmin Weaver. Jasmin is a student at the University of Washington in Seattle and has been awarded this prestigious scholarship based on her academic excellence, leadership, and community service. Jasmin represents the third award winner from the University of Washington in the last three years.

The George J. Mitchell Scholarship, which is administered by the nonprofit U.S.-Ireland Alliance, was created to build bonds between American and Irish leaders and was named in honor of the respected former leader of this body who played an integral part in the peace process of Ireland. This scholarship allows university students the opportunity to do postgraduate study for a year at a university in Ireland. There were a record number of applicants this year, with nearly 300 students applying here in the United States.

This award has been particularly important for my home State, with three recipients of this award from the University of Washington in the last three years. Last year's award recipient was Matt Alexander and the previous year Dawn Hewett. I would like to personally congratulate all three winners of this award from our State and I know Washington students will continue their legacy of excellence through this award in the future.●

NATIONAL DRUG CONTROL STRATEGY FOR 2003—PM 15

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

To the Congress of the United States:

I am pleased to transmit the 2003 National Drug Control Strategy, consistent with the Office of National Drug Control Policy Reauthorization Act of 1998 (12 U.S.C. 1705).

A critical component of our Strategy is to teach young people how to avoid illegal drugs because of the damage drugs can do to their health and future. Our children must learn early that they have a lifelong responsibility to reject illegal drug use and to stay sober. Our young people who avoid drugs will grow up best able to participate in the promise of America.

Yet far too many Americans already use illegal drugs, and most of those whose drug use has progressed—more than five million Americans—do not even realize they need help. While those who suffer from addiction must help themselves, family, friends, and people with drug experiences must do their part to help to heal and to make whole men and women who have been broken by addiction.

We know the drug trade is a business. Drug traffickers are in that business to make money, and this Strategy outlines how we intend to deny them revenue. In short, we intend to make the drug trade unprofitable wherever we can.

Our Strategy is performance-based, and its success will be measured by its results. Those results are our moral obligation to our children. I ask for your continued support in this critical endeavor.

GEORGE W. BUSH.
